Dear Reader

We hope that you enjoy receiving Aquaculture News and reading about current research outputs in our professional field.

Aquaculture News is published by the Institute of Aquaculture and contains articles and updates from staff and students, past and present, as well as our friends around the world. We always welcome interesting material from a wide range of sources, so if you would like to promote your work in our magazine please get in touch.

Aquaculture News is distributed free of charge to over 2000 locations around the world and is read by many people in each location. We would like to continue with this level of distribution, but we would like to know that what we are sending is reaching the appropriate people and that you are finding it interesting.

If you wish to continue receiving Aquaculture News please complete the address slip below and give us your comments in response to the following questions. N.B. if you do not complete the form you will not receive any future copies of Aquaculture News. If you do not receive Aquaculture News personally and would like your own copy please answer the questions and complete the same form below.

We look forward to sending future editions of Aquaculture News for your continued enjoyment.
