

What's in Storre

STORRE is the University's Open Access repository; its aim is to make Stirling's research more widely and easily available. See <http://storre.stir.ac.uk>.

It holds the full text of the University's theses from September 2006 onwards; covering PhDs and Masters by Research. A small collection of our older theses is also included, and will be added to, due to ongoing digitisation work and our involvement in the British Library's new thesis digitisation service (<http://ethos.bl.uk>).

STORRE also holds a growing collection of other research publications – see the Institute of Aquaculture collection at <https://dspace.stir.ac.uk/handle/1893/12>.

Recent theses submitted to STORRE:

2010 Theses:

Grano Maldonado, Mayra Ixchel, 2010
The biological and behavioural basis of host selection in the transmission of Gyrodactylus (Monogenea)
